Terrorism Research in a Polarized World

15th Annual International Conference

Society for Terrorism Research

July 20th and 21st, 2023

Iscte - University Institute of Lisbon

The Society for Terrorism Research (STR) and the Centre for International Studies at Iscte (CEI-Iscte) are delighted to announce that the 15th annual international STR conference will be held on July 20th and 21st, 2023, on the Lisbon Iscte Campus. This conference will focus on the theme Terrorism Research in a Polarized World.

Proposals for paper presentations, panel proposals and/or posters will be considered for inclusion in the programme if they are received by April 14th, 2023. We will notify everyone that submits on April 24th 2023 on whether their submission has been accepted.

In addition to showcasing new research on terrorism, the goal of this conference will be to consider what the future of terrorism and, indeed, terrorism research might look like by 2030.

The conference will seek to stimulate discussion around fundamental questions, including:

- How do we build meaningful and sustainable relationships between the research, policy and practice communities?
- How do we maximise impact from the research that is undertaken?
- How do we enhance innovation in terrorism research and harness expertise in other disciplines as well as researchers that may not have considered themselves to have a role in terrorism studies?
- How do we achieve this while continuing to address contemporary terrorism-related issues?

These questions cannot be answered by any one single topic and as such we welcome paper presentations, panel proposals and/or posters that cover any topic related to terrorism research.

This call is open to researchers and practitioners alike.

All paper presentations abstracts, panel proposals and/or poster submissions should be submitted by the 14th April 2023.
